

Feral/Barn Cat Population Control

Have you ever had a cat show up at your house and decide to call it home? Did you feel sorry for it and feed it, only to find more cats show up to take advantage of your hospitality? Cats can be valuable companions that help control rodent populations as well as provide love and friendship to their owners. Without being spayed or neutered, however, they can also quickly overwhelm a kind-hearted homeowner with kittens!

Mapleton Veterinary Clinic offers a cat spay/neuter program for homeowners who enjoy their feline companions but want to avoid proliferation of numbers. Basic cat neuters with a rabies vaccine start at $65 and basic cat spays with rabies vaccine start at $95. These prices include a pre-anesthetic exam by a veterinarian, anesthesia/pain management in the hospital, sterile surgery performed with a new sterile surgery pack for each patient, veterinary technician monitoring while under anesthesia, and a one-year rabies vaccine.
